NIYFA and the league recommend that all clubs act to cease repetitive training techniques for heading a football for players aged 11 years and younger.

It is accepted that in a training/match situation heading a football is a potential consequence of any passage of play. This recommendation seeks to address concerns that repetitive heading practice may potentially have a long-term adverse effect on the brain.

19. OPEN TRIALS

Many clubs now use social media to advertise and bring players to their clubs, many of these highlight that players need to get permission from their current club. That is not the case, the rule states quite clearly that it must be a club-to-club agreement. The rule is to standardise open trials and or training and avoid conflict and animosity between teams.

As of the Second Monday in May until the opening of the registration window annually, clubs will be free to arrange and players free to attend open trials and training without first seeking permission from their current club. Players will not be permitted to sign for any new club before 16th June, but clubs wishing to re-register their existing players may do so before 30th June with consent of the players parents. Advertising of the same must not commence before May Day Monday Bank Holiday in any season.

Note this does not apply to players who are registered to play in a summer league, in those cases the form at Annexe 3 must be agreed and completed prior to any trial. Players registered in summer leagues will be free to attend open trials in January in any season but this applies to players and teams registered to participate in the summer league only.

Clubs who make trial arrangements before the above dates must submit a signed agreement approving participation for any player registered to another club in any league and submit copies of that agreement to the league/leagues of the clubs concerned. See Template agreement on your league website.
